Russia's Ukraine Army Scores Sweeping Advance

3,500 Germans Killed in New Red Offensive

Nazis Abandon Guns and Flee

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 11 (AP)—Russia's Ukrainian army stormed westward through a battlefield littered with 3,500 German dead and abandoned Nazi war material yesterday, fanning out on a seventy-mile front beyond captured Kiev to within forty miles of the Zhitomir rail junction, Moscow said today.

Over sixty towns and hamlets—two of them district centers—fell to the continuing Russian offensive which broke across the Teteriv river in the north and surged to Komarovka in the central sector. Komarovka, northeast of Zhitomir, is also forty-eight miles southeast of Korosten, another rail center which the Germans must hold if they would protect their north-south communications. This push marked an advance of forty-two miles due west of Kiev.

(The British radio said Russian troops were reported to be thirteen miles from Korosten. The broadcast, in the German language, was recorded by CBS and gave no further details.)

Germans Retreating

The district centers of Ivanov and Grebenki fell to the Russians as the Germans retreated before the twenty-day intervals. Their formations smashed by the devastating barrage, the Germans abandoned food, ammunition, guns, trucks, a train and tanks in their flight.

An earlier Russian communiqué listed as captured a town which might have been Khorivka, but later corrections indicated that Khorivka had not yet been reached. Khorivka is thirty-five miles southeast of Zhitomir, and sixty-six miles from Kiev.

Rain, cold and fog failed to halt the Russian drive, which also reached south to Vasilev, thirty-three miles north of Kiev and only twenty miles northeast of the rail city of Brelaya Tserkov. This column appeared to be aiming at a junction with the Russians west of the Dnieper near Pereyaslav and it was possible the two forces had already met.

"All Hell Loose"

The Germans admitted withdrawals in the Kiev area and one Nazi reporter broadcast in a description of the fighting that "all hell broke loose."

In the Crimea, where Moscow dispatches indicated the Russians were circling for a major drive, Soviet marines, supported by fighter planes, smashed back German tanks thrown against the Russian beachheads on the Kerch peninsula. The Moscow radio said the Russians gained ground as thousands of Germans and in the unsuccessful counter-attack.

Two Launches Sunk

The communiqué said prisoners were taken and a strongly fortified strongpoint captured in this battle. In the narrow Kerch strait, German torpedoes launched sought to halt barges and launches, bringing in Russian reinforcements.

Red army planes and heavy guns sank two German torpedo launches, a patrol cutter and a high speed landing barge.

There was heavy fighting in the Nevel area, where Russian spearheads were approximately fifty miles from the Latvian border. The Russians moved on through minefields and barbed wire to capture several strongly fortified areas, beating off five counterattacks and wiping out a German battalion. Over 600 Germans were killed in another sector.

Anniversary of German Surrender Finds Second War Nearing Climax

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Staff Writer
Armistice—The intoxicating news of peace—came to Europe just a quarter of a century ago today. (Thurs.) hushing the guns of bloody world conflict that snuffed the lives of 8,338,000 men, wounded 21,219,000, spread inconceivable anguish, pain, ruin, and scars.

It came Nov. 11, 1918, at the eleventh hour, on the eleventh day, in the eleventh month, after 65,000,000 men had been mobilized, after more than half—37,500,000—counting prisoners and missing—were casualties.

It found 4,000,000 American troops in Europe, half of them in Europe.

Surrender of Germany

At that hour Germany surrendered, and fearfully-bought victory came to the four major powers—the United States, Britain, France, and Italy. Across the Pacific, Japan shared too in the triumph after near-costless aid in the Orient, winning as spoils island bases later to become fortresses spawning new aggression.

Germany was the last of the Central Powers to topple. Austria, listing ninety per cent of her army among the casualties, had capitulated Nov. 4, Turkey on Oct. 30, Bulgaria on Sept. 29.

Fallen from Allied ranks was Russia, czarism overthrown by revolution which surrendered to Germany March 3, 1918.

Today, riding irresistibly on the road to victory, Allied peoples look hopefully to another armistice ending a greater war.

But it appears still stern, hard

Germans Battle To Hold Present Line in Italy

Launch New Attacks Against Americans

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 10. (AP)—Under orders to hold their present Italian line at all costs "for at least eight weeks," German forces are launching savage counterattacks against American infantry and massed artillery in the mountainous Venafro area, the Allied command announced today.

The reinforced Nazis hurled nine furious but unavailing charges against the frostbitten Americans within twenty-four hours in a desperate effort to check the Allied advance on their new Garigliano river-Sangro river positions.

Germans Thrown Back

Each time they were thrown back with heavy casualties by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's fighting doughboys and by terrific artillery barrages that ripped up the mountain-sides.

Snow already had begun to fall in the Apennines, and conditions were the worst under which the Allies had fought since they invaded Italy.

The weather seriously cut down on the activity of Allied fighters and fighter-bombers over the battle front, but heavy Flying Fortress and Liberator's of the new Fifteenth army air force battered a ball and roller bearing works at Villar Perosa, near Turin in Northern Italy, and the Ansaldo steel works, docks and railways at Genoa, Italy's leading port. The Villar Perosa plant was thought to be the last in Italy turning out bearings for the Nazi war machine.

German "Winter Line"

Documents taken from captured Germans confirmed that the enemy has picked his present front across Italy, some seventy to eighty miles from Rome, as a "winter line" and has ordered it held at all costs for "at least eight weeks."

The eleven Nazi divisions entrusted with the task were putting up stiff resistance everywhere. Their infantry was supported by heavy artillery concentrations on dominating heights and by squadrons of tanks held in reserve for sorties at threatened points. Every niche in the mountainsides concealed a machine-gun to sweep the approaches.

ALLIES MOVE IN ON TREASURY ISLAND

WITH BARGES BEACHED within a few feet of the rocky shore, New Zealanders, part of the invasion force that wrested Treasury Island from the Japanese, bring ashore battle supplies. There was little resistance and the enemy was driven to the hills. The taking of this base imperils the southern approach to Bougainville Island, last important Jap base in the Solomons, on which United States Marines have landed.

U. S. Planes Bomb Nazi Air Base

RAF Also Raids Hitler's Europe

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—United States Marauder bombers streaked above the heart of Belgium today to pound the Nazi air base at Chièvres as more than 500 Britain-based warplanes fanned out over Hitler's Europe in one of the biggest Allied daylight aerial offensives in weeks.

Hour after hour, formations of medium and light bombers and fighters thundered back and forth across the English channel, and a dozen attacks were executed.

Few enemy fighters rose to meet the raiders, and from the operations only one Allied fighter was reported missing.

No American Planes Lost

The American force which blasted the Chièvres base, just thirty miles southwest of Brussels and 115 miles from Dover on the English coast, lost no planes.

Returning fliers said their bombs fell among at least thirty twin-engine enemy bombers in the air base's principal dispersal area, and destroyed at least four while scoring direct hits on a hangar.

Land targets in northern France felt the sting of RAP Typhoons. Whirlwinds and Mustangs, while an additional force of Whirlwinds swept over the life of Guernsey and attacked enemy coastal vessels.

Swooping down in a surprise assault on shipping in the Lezardieux estuary in Brittany, Typhoon fighters plunked at least one bomb squarely on an enemy ship.

No German Opposition

The Marauders, on the first American operation from Britain since Flying Fortresses hit Dueren Sunday, and their escort of swift Spitfires met no enemy planes at all. This underscored an RAP commentator's report today that the German air force had been forced to conserve its resources to defend prime Nazi targets.

While the Marauders were out, United States Thunderbolt fighters went over northern France in independent sweeps.

An RAF officer who led the raid on Brittany shipping said the Whirlwinds "caught them completely napping. We were on our way out before they really got going with flak. Only one of us was hit and that was very slight."

Murdock Asks Probe Of Use of U. S. Cars

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. Destroyer Crew Sinks U-Boat

Battles Germans At Close Range

By HAMILTON W. FARON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—Battling with shotguns, pistols, empty shell cases and even knives at ranges down to ten feet, the men of the Destroyer Borie fought a Nazi U-boat crew to the death while their ship pounded the submarine to pieces.

Then, her aged plates overstrained in contributing more than one ship's share to a brilliant new chapter of American naval history, the Borie limped away in a heavy storm to carry her crew to safety before she quit the fight. Beyond salvage, she was sunk by American planes.

Allies Seeking To Oust Roatta

Demand Badoglio Remove Officer

LONDON, Nov. 10. (AP)—The Allies requested Premier Pietro Badoglio to remove Gen. Mario Roatta, Italian chief of staff, as a result of Yugoslav charges that he was a "war criminal" responsible for a reign of terror in Yugoslavia, it was disclosed today.

The Germans meanwhile harassed by guerrilla activity from the Swiss border to the Franco-Italian Riviera, have offered amnesty to Italian and French patriots who surrendered before Nov. 15. The offer was believed aimed at an estimated 10,000 anti-Axis Italian troops who were reported to have dug in for the winter.

The case of Gen. Roatta may be the first presented before the United States, Russia and Britain. The commission probably will decide whether Roatta will be sent to Yugoslavia for trial under terms of the Moscow conference.

Minister of State Richard K. Law, who told the House of Commons today of the Allied request for Roatta's removal following an investigation of the Yugoslav charges, said Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower still had under consideration "the case of Gen. (Vittorio) Ambrosio."

Gen. Ambrosio also is charged with war crimes by the Yugoslavs. Badoglio's cabinet as announced Sept. 30 included Roatta as chief of staff and Ambrosio as army chief of staff.

Army Lands Big Force To Back Up the Marines

MacArthur Reports Impressive Gains

By WILLIAM F. BONI

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Thursday, Nov. 11. (AP)—United States marines have killed an estimated half of the Japanese force which landed from barges north of their Bougainville beachhead and United States army troops have put ashore without loss, despite a big enemy air attack, to reinforce the Northern Solomons position.

The marines, employing tanks, decisively defeated the Japanese Tuesday, four miles north of the original marine position in Cape Torokina, General MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

From the South Pacific headquarters of Admiral Halsey came reports that a large force of army troops landed at Empress Augusta bay Monday without loss of a man. Subsequently, approximately sixty Japanese divebombers and fighters swept in for a raid, damaging one ship.

Allied planes intercepted, shooting down at least thirteen divebombers and thirteen fighters against loss of eight of their own. After dark Monday, Japanese planes attacked again, hitting a combat task force screening transports. The task force's anti-aircraft accounted for several Jap planes, Admiral Halsey's headquarters said.

Kill 150 Japanese

General MacArthur said the marines killed 150 Japanese in the Tuesday clash.

Since the marines first invaded Bougainville, last big enemy Solomons base barring the eastern approaches to Rabaul, they have killed an estimated 300 Japanese including some on the south end of the beachhead.

The positions of the barge-landed Japanese at the mouth of the Laruma river, four miles north of the marine position on Cape Torokina, were blasted by Mitchell medium bombers and fighters and a number of barges were destroyed.

Presumably the Jap force which moved down Bougainville's West coast from Buika in the barges had intended to join with bypassed Japanese on the south end of the marine beachhead in exerting a pincer against Empress Augusta bay.

Marine Casualties Light

The marines threw tanks and artillery against the northern force. Marine casualties in Tuesday's fight were characterized as light.

The Japanese air force which made Monday's attack was believed to have come from Rabaul, possibly making one stop at Buika on the way.

The MacArthur air smash at Alexishafen, a staging area for planes based at Wewak, was made early Tuesday by Mitchells, A-26s, P-47s and P-38s. The Lightning fighters in the group were stronger in force than the intercepting Japanese.

In the vicinity of Kavieng, New Ireland, three convoys were sighted and attacked beginning Monday night, indicating the Japanese still are reinforcing Rabaul where enemy plane and ship losses have been heavy. A 10,000-ton merchantman, under escort of destroyers and possibly a light cruiser, was sunk by bombs of a Liberator.

About the same time Monday night, a United States navy Catalina attacked a group of ships, including a destroyer, a submarine chaser and two merchantmen.

Tuesday morning a Liberator bombed a convoy of one destroyer and two large freighter-transports near Manus island near the northwestern tip of New Ireland.

Mexican-Born Munitions Merchants Admit Plan To Buy Guns for Japs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—The

Mexican-born Miranda brothers, international munitions merchants, unfolded today the story of their pre-war, world-wide dealings in arms and aircraft, but denied flatly any violation of the law—"legal or moral"—in sales to Japan.

Alfred and Ignacio Miranda, both dark-haired and smartly-tailored, underwent a day-long cross-examination as a House naval subcommittee dug into their background and their connection with the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation.

Heavy stockholders in Brewster and the corporation's former executives, the brothers have been accused of elusive foreign sales agents, they denied ever attempting to "dictate" management of the company which is under investigation by the committee for failure to meet production schedules on navy planes.

But little of today's hearing centered around Brewster's affairs. Instead, it focused in general upon the Mirandas' export business and, in particular, upon their efforts to obtain machineguns in 1938 for installation in twenty Sikorsky planes which they had sold to Japan.

A J. Miranda frankly said that he had attempted to buy the guns in this country, in Mexico, in England and in Europe and Norway. He denied, however, any knowledge of, or any part in what Rep. Grant (R-Ind.) called "machinations" by the Japanese firm of Okura and Company to get the guns to Japan by shipping them to Antwerp and then transshipping them to Sam.

International Relief Organization Discusses Feeding of Needy Abroad

By SIGRID ARNE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 10. (AP)—The first international body to stem from World War II—the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Commission—began work today on the task of providing food, clothing and medicine to the war-torn countries of the world.

Delegates from forty-four governments, accompanied by 200 advisers, attended.

Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of State and temporary chairman of the conference, said in an address of welcome, said in an address of welcome, said the primary task of UNRRA was to assist the emergency needs of areas liberated from Axis domination.

"The time and attention of this meeting," he said, "will be well spent if it is directed to these immediate needs—rather than to the more distant future. For the existence of a future for the whole populations depends upon their being able to bridge this gap."

Acheson said there must be close co-operation between the occupying armies and UNRRA, but he emphasized that the responsibility for civilian supply "must become a civilian responsibility."

One of the first items tomorrow will be election of a director general of the world-wide relief plan, with indications that the post would go to former Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, who directed the initial American relief work in North Africa.

Americans Bomb Villar Perosa

Also Raid Dock And Rail Yards

By NOLAN NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Nov. 10. (AP)—Methodically destroying what little remains of northern Italy's war industries, heavy Liberators and Flying Fortresses of the new Fifteenth United States Army Air Force made precision attacks yesterday on a ball and roller bearing factory at Villar Perosa, twenty-five miles west of Turin, and on the Ansaldo steel works, docks and railroad yards at the big port of Genoa.

Liberators protected by twin-tailed Lightning fighters struck at the Villar Perosa plant, which is believed to have been the last one in Italy producing bearings, an absolute essential for the Nazi military machine. Fortresses made the assault on Genoa, which was described as successful despite bad weather.

Not a bomber was lost in the two destructive daylight raids, though the Germans sent up fifteen of their crack Focke-Wulf-190 fighters to protect the Villar Perosa works, near the Swiss border. One was shot down by Lt. Richard J. Lee of St. Louis, Mo., a Lightning pilot, and was seen to crash in the mountains.

No assessment was made of damage either to the bearing works or at Genoa, but a Fortress pilot said the attack on Genoa was carried

Eight National Labor Unions Seek More Drastic War-time Tax Boosts

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—Eight national organizations, including the CIO, called today for more drastic war-time taxes, declaring the bill shaped by the House Ways and Means committee fails to tax adequately "high personal incomes" and "unparalleled corporate profits."

The organizations proposed a $25,000 ceiling on salaries, after taxes, but opposed any form of national retail sales tax. They also protested any form of "gas" rule that would prohibit amendment of the committee's bill when it reaches the House floor.

Committee Ready To Report

The committee is about ready to submit to the House a bill providing $2,250,000,000 in new levies 80 per cent short of the administration's request for $10,500,000,000 additional revenue.

The groups set forth their position in a message addressed to each member of Congress. It was signed by President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and representatives of the National Farmers Union, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, National Women's Trade Union League of America, League of Women Shoppers, National Lawyers Guild and Consumers Union.

Armistice Day Finds No Letup

Production for War To Continue Today

[By The Associated Press]

The Free State of Maryland, hard at work on the task of producing food and material for the second World War, set aside enough time today to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the armistice which ended the first World War.

Parades, memorial services, an airport dedication and the unveiling of new war monuments were programmed for the day's observance, but none of them were permitted to interfere with the ever-present job of producing for war.

Banks, public offices and a few stores closed for the celebration, but not a single war plant.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding officer of the Third Service Command, started off the anniversary yesterday with an address before the Advertising Club of Baltimore, in which he blamed the present war on the older generation and pleaded for safeguards against a repetition.

"There is no doubt that we failed as a nation after the termination of World War one," he said. He recalled that General John J. Pershing's slogan, "On to Berlin," went unheeded, that in succeeding years the cry was for scrapping the fleet and the army, then said:

"Let us adopt one further resolve. Let us pledge ourselves to make certain that the peace is won when the war is done. Let us not shrink at the mention of world collaboration. Let us not allow our desire for ease of living ever again to commit us to shortsighted policies."

Then he added that "On to Berlin" and "On to Tokyo" must be the United Nations' slogans if "we are to rid the world of the cancer of militarism."

Marigny Verdict

before stern-faced Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly launches into his charge to the jury.

Tugging at the collar of his black robe, Higgs centered his attack on the fingerprint—exhibit B—which Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police said he lifted from a bed-spread in the bedroom at Oakes' estate, Westbourne, where the assault took place during the early morning hours of July 8. It is an impression of de Marigny's right little finger, both sides agree to that.

But Higgs charged again, just as he did earlier in the trial, that the fingerprint was faked.

"I suggest that lift never came from the screen," he shouted, quoting Capt. Maurice B. O'Neill of the New Orleans police and Leonarde Keeler, private criminologist, as saying the print on exhibit could not have been lifted from the screen surface.

De Marigny Defended

Higgs insisted that de Marigny had established conclusively, and had witnesses who backed him up, that he was at home at the time of the slaying in a house five miles away.

The witnesses' stories, he declared, show that "it was absolutely impossible for the accused to have murdered Sir Harry."

Hallinan who spoke while de Marigny sat out of the sight of spectators in the prisoner's cage, told of "a rising crescendo of enmity between him and the Oakes family that finally he was in such a predicament that in an attempt to get control of the family fortune he was willing to resort to murder."

Higgs asked the jurors to "purge from your minds any prejudices or pre-opinions."

"De Marigny is a foreigner of French descent," he added. "Some of his actions may have shocked the people of this island, or shocked you."

"But you are not trying him on prejudice. If de Marigny dies from prejudice it would be a greater crime than the slaying of Sir Harry Oakes."

"It must be shown that under British justice anyone must have a fair trial."

Anniversary of months away. Prime Minister Winston Churchill predicts the climax in Europe in 1944, after bloody invasion, after battles more terrible than Waterloo and Gettysburg.

Long Conflict Looms

Continuing conflict in the Orient is likely—perhaps for long—after Armistice comes again to all of Europe.

Casualties again total millions—estimated at 25,000,000 this war—but more exact figures will not be available until after the war. The figure includes some civilians killed, but does not include millions wounded, made homeless, or starving and ill.

This conflict dwarfs the first in scope, in cost in blood, men, and wealth. World war one was confined mainly to one continent, splashing over upon Africa and Asia. This has flamed in titanic struggles across those three continents and all the seas, mobilized far greater numbers of soldiers—10,000,000 for America compared with 4,000,000 before—harnessed a awful proportion of the world's resources into battle.

Big Four in Action

Today the big four Allied powers are the United States, Britain, Russia, and China, with troops from Opposing are Germany, Japan, and their satellites, including Hungary, Rumania, unhappy Finland, Bulgaria, and smaller contingents such as Croats, Slovenes, Thailanders and Burmese.

Major differences today are China holding the enemy in East Asia, and Russia winning the greatest victories in land warfare in Europe. In Churchill's words wrecking the Nazi military machine in blows "that may well prove mortal."

Knocked out are France, by Germany on June 22, 1940, and Italy by the Allies on Sept. 8, 1943.

Italy, a victor in 1918, is vanquished. France awaits liberation. Japan, strengthened by World War one, faces death of her empire.

saw the most important Russian gains of the day. As the Russians drew near to Korosten and Zhitomir German resistance was expected to stiffen, for these points control railroads running into Poland. At Korosten a Russian success would capture the last north-south railway line short of Poland carrying troops and supplies between the Northern and Southern sectors of the German front.

Far to the south in the Dnieper river loop the Germans also faced serious disaster. They reported attacks on the Kherson bridgehead, north of Krivoy Rog and southwest of Dnepropetrovsk which, they said, were frustrated. A Russian attempt to penetrate the mouth of the Dnieper with eight ships was also reported, but the German high command said six were sunk and two captured by German naval patrol vessels.

At Nikopol, one of Russia's most important manganese mine centers, the Red army was reported gradually forcing the Germans from the bridgehead they still held on the southern bank of the Dnieper opposite the town.

Eight National

proposed this seven-point tax program:

Seven-Point Program

1. Elimination of the income-tax levies on low incomes which were substituted by the committee for the repealed victory tax.

2. Restoration of personal income exemptions to $750 for single persons, $1,500 for married couples and $400 for each dependent. Exemptions under the 1942 act are $500, $1,200 and $350.

3. Increased personal taxes on incomes above $3,000 a year, along with a $25,000 ceiling on net income, after taxes. Congress recently repealed such a salary ceiling established by President Roosevelt through executive order.

4. An increase in the corporate tax rate from forty per cent to at least fifty per cent. The administration recommended such an increase but the Ways and Means group rejected it in an overall scrapping of the administration program.

5. Elimination of the option to compute excess profits on the average-earnings method.

6. Elimination of "special privileges" so as to provide for mandatory joint returns, the taxation of governmental securities and the elimination of percentage-depletion allowances for oil and mining properties.

7. Increased tax rates and lowered exemptions for estate and gifts.

The committee, now struggling with proposed revisions for the law governing renegotiation of war contracts for recovery of excessive profits, refused earlier to raise individual or corporation income tax rates. Renegotiation changes will be made part of the new tax bill.

Most of the revenue in the $2,250,000,000 bill comes from boosted postal rates, higher excises on so-called luxuries, such as liquor, tobacco, furs and lipstick, and an increase in the corporation excess profits tax from ninety to ninety-five per cent.

Sec. Ickes Tired Of Investigations

Denounces House Committee Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Secretary Ickes, battling "Curmudgeon" of the New Deal, went to the mat with Congress today by telling a House committee to its face that he was "tired to death of useless and fruitless committees of investigation."

The trigger-tempered Interior secretary unloosed his denunciation at a hearing on the case of Dr. Robert Morris Lovett, Virgin Islands official, Congress has ordered Lovett cut off the payroll Nov. 15 because an appropriations sub-committee accused him of associating with "Communist-front" organizations.

Ickes told the Insular Affairs committee, conducting today's hearing, that Lovett would stay in government employment without pay and would meanwhile fight in the courts to recover his salary on the grounds that the Congressional order was unconstitutional.

The committee grilled Ickes for more than an hour, and at one point Rep. Gross (R-Pa.) broke in to request that all federal employees in the room rise and be counted. (Gross said later that he made the request because Ickes "had so many assistants answering us.")

This proved the last straw for Ickes, who had described himself as a "Curmudgeon" in his autobiography. Red-faced and scowling, he stood up along with five Interior department employees and declared:

"And may I add that we are tired to death of wasting public funds and public time in appearing before useless and fruitless committees of investigation."

Destroyer Crew

ing destroyed "more submarines than any team in naval history." The skipper of the Borie, 30-year old Lieutenant Charles H. Hutchins, Terre Haute, Ind., told today of what became at times almost a hand-to-hand fight somewhere in the Atlantic after his ship, trying to ram, rode up and over the submarine.

"We held him there and started shooting with everything we had," said Hutchins. "Some men fired shotguns; the executive officer grabbed a tommy-gun and started shooting from the bridge; others used pistols, one boy even took a signal pistol and fired at the sub."

Throw Shellcases

"The range was so short one gun couldn't be brought to bear on the submarine. So the gun captain started throwing empty shellcases and he knocked one man off the deck of the sub. Another fellow threw his knife. He said later he'd never been able to stick a knife in the floor before, but this time he hit a man on the sub and knocked him overboard."

"One other gun crew couldn't fire because their shield was in the way. They cut a hole in the shield and fired right through it."

The action with "the biggest sub I've ever seen," Hutchins said, lasted about ten minutes before the U-boat broke loose and attempted to flee.

Stopped at Short Range

"He went into a tight turn and we couldn't turn close enough to bring our guns on him," Hutchins continued. "We attempted to ram again even though we'd been damaged pretty badly when we ran up over him. He turned the tables and tried to ram us, but we fired a salvo of depth charges and stopped him about six feet from our side."

Hutchins then told of continued fire at the submarine—one crew man operated a big gun alone, getting the ammunition, loading the gun, then firing; another gun captain, when mechanism failed, pulled the latch by hand to fire his gun repeatedly until a recoil that battered his arm "until it was big as his leg."

Then the sub "sank right in front of us and exploded," Hutchins said.

Ford Motor Company Charges

Union Plot To Run Big Plant

DETROIT, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company charged tonight in a statement credited to Ford officials that a strike at the Willow Run bomber plant, involving 1,217 employees, "was linked to a CIO attempt to take over management of the bomber plant."

Glenn Brayton, president of Willow Run Local No. 50, United Automobile Workers (CIO), described the company's charges, in a formal reply, as a "dead cat," a "smear" and "nothing but a smoke screen designed to cover up its own inefficiency" in bomber plant operations.

He declared his union had "used every means at our command to discourage stoppages and strikes," and that it had done so "in the face of the most arrogant disregard for the rights of workers as human beings."

Ickes Names Committees To Help Him Work Out Coal Mine Problems

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Ickes today appointed two committees of coal operators to help him work out details concerning times and conditions of work in the coal mines, which are under government possession.

A bituminous coal advisory committee of eight men and an anthracite advisory committee of three will consult with Ickes on matters arising under his agreement with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

These matters include wages for piece workers and loaders.

The bituminous committee follows: Charles O'Neill, president of the United Eastern Coal Sales Company, New York; R. L. Ireland, Jr., president of the Hanna Coal Company, Cleveland; L. E. Gaines, president of the New River Coal Company, Mt. Hope, W. Va.; Duncan Kennedy, secretary, Kanawha Coal Operators Association, Charleston, W. Va.; D. A. Thomas, Alabama Mining Institute, Birmingham; George Campbell, vice president, Old Ben Coal Corporation, Chicago; Kenneth A. Spencer, general manager, Pittsburgh and Midway Coal Company, Pittsburgh, Kan.; Eugene McAuliffe, president, Union Pacific Coal Company, Omaha, Neb.

The anthracite committee:

Major William W. Ingalls, president, Glen Alden Coal Company, New York; R. E. Taggart, president, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, Philadelphia; James Pierce, president, East Bear Ridge Collieries Company, Scranton, Pa.

Singleton Will Get Physical Exam Today

Held in the county jail since October 14 when he was ordered held in custody for further investigation by Associate Judge William A. Singleton was arrested earlier in October after neighbors reported the primitive conditions under which his family were living in their three-room, unpainted house.

members having little sympathy with Wilkie's expressed views.

Such a contest, if it develops, would not preclude, of course, the eventual nomination of someone else as a candidate to unite all party factions. An Associated Press survey of G.O.P. state chairmen last August showed, however, that a majority thought the nomination would go to Bricker, Wilkie or Dewey.

In addition to Stassen and others previously mentioned, that Poll also brought out the names as possibilities of Senators Taft and Vandenberg, who have said they will not be candidates, and Governors Earl Warren of California, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Dwight Green of Illinois, Senator McNary of Oregon, and James A. Farley, former Democratic leader now at odds with the Roosevelt administration.

Johnson Heights P.T.A. Will Hold Christmas Jingle Party Dec. 14

The Johnson Heights Parent-Teacher Association will hold a Christmas jingle party and "Carol Sing" on December 14. It will take the place of the regular business meeting. Plans were made at the meeting of the association Tuesday evening with Mrs. Frank Bailey presiding.

Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie was appointed to lead the carol singing; Mrs. Frances Travis, games chairman; Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Albert Beckman, refreshment chairmen.

Prizes for attendance were awarded to Miss Naomi Teter's Sixth grade and Mrs. Mary McFarland's First grade. Miss Mildred Beck gave a report on the Parent-Teacher Association summer conference held at College Park.

A playlet entitled, "An Evening at Home," featured the entertainment program. The characters were portrayed by pupils of the Fifth and Sixth grades. Edward Keith was the announcer; Nancy Bailey, Frances Kennell, Clara Belle Estes, Agnes Ray, the speakers; Rosetta Croyle, the mother; Gordon Andrews, the father; Marlene Chenoweth, Neil Grayson, the children; Patricia Close, Ann Sittig, Ralph McCoy, John Zehrbach, Wilson Lantz, visitors; and Hazel Sensenbaur portrayed "confusion." Edwinn Warhime led the audience in the flag salute and the singing of the National Anthem.

Near Capacity Crowd Hears Opera "Faust"

The opera "Faust" was presented before a near capacity crowd of more than 1,000 persons in the Fort Hill high school auditorium last night by a Charles L. Wagner company.

The performance left the crowd well-pleased and there were numerous curtain calls throughout the production.

John Gurney, singing the role of Mephistopheles, won the acclaim of the audience and Maxine Stelman, taking the place of Frances Greer as "Marguerite," gave a scintillating performance.

Change Clinic Date

The regular monthly chest clinic of the health department will be held Thursday, November 18, at 9 a. m., at city hall instead of November 25, due to the Thanksgiving holiday. Dr. Isadore Lyon, of Baltimore, will be the clinician.

Cresaptown P.T.A. Plans Christmas Party

The Cresaptown Parent-Teacher Association will hold a Christmas party for the parents at 7:30 o'clock December 13 at the school; the children's party will be held during the school period. Plans were made at the meeting Tuesday evening. The next executive meeting will be held at 3:30 o'clock November 16 at the school.

Mrs. Oren Robertson presided and gave a report of the state convention of Parents and Teachers held recently in Towson. Reports from all chairmen were also given.

James E. Spitznagel, supervisor of schools and chairman of the co-ordinating committee for child welfare, was the guest speaker and discussed "World Understanding and Juvenile Delinquency."

The program also included vocal selections by a trio composed of Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Harry Barton and Miss Eva Mae Barton. Their selections were "Autumn Lullaby" and "Crossing the Bar."

De Luce Describes Fighting

Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent with the Eighth army, described the fighting on that front:

"In cold, stinging rain men of the Eighth Army scooped out machine-gun pits in hillside groves, wrestled artillery through wallows and fanned out grimly in offensive patrols. 'Blood river' is what the forward troops call the shallow, sluggish stream that Italian maps mark as Fiume Sangro. Its broad basin is studded with hidden mines. Enemy firepower is massed effectively at possible fords."

In yesterday's advance the Eighth army reported encountering forty-five major demolitions. The push took through a dozen villages, including Macerona, Vallepiccola, Roccastrada, Montalto, Monticello and Seblana.

Near Calabritto one part of the Fifth army from the Nazis launched a heavy counterattack against British troops, but were repulsed. The Fifth Army was concentrating along the lower reaches of the Garigliano and sending patrols across the stream to feel out the strength of German positions on the heights beyond.

Missionary Society Holds Meeting

The Vera Blinn Missionary Society of Bethany United Brethren church decided at the meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. L. Nesbitt, 581 Arnett terrace, to join the "World's Largest Christmas Party," in sending gifts to Japanese children up to seventeen years of age, who are in the relocation camps in America. The articles are to be brought to the meeting at the home of Mrs. Nina Barnett, Robbins terrace, December 14.

Mrs. Robert Baker presided at the business session. Mrs. H. J. Rowley was leader of the program, which was based on the theme, "America Needs the Church."

Mrs. Robert Young, of Davis Memorial church, was guest speaker and gave a review of the book, "We Who Are America," by Kenneth D. Miller. The same theme was stressed in the group singing of "America the Beautiful," and the prayer by Mrs. H. C. Trenton. Mrs. C. W. Bloss read the Scripture and Mrs. Ralph Isminger read the hymn, "God of Grace, God of Glory."

Sorority Meets

Designing miniature gardens featured the meeting of the Maryland Lambda Chapter, of Beta Sigma Phi sorority Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. W. Holmes, 509 Dunbar drive. One was presented to the hostess at the conclusion of the meeting.

Miss Evelyn Bloss presided and Red Cross kits were filled and returned. The program was under the direction of Miss Mary McGraw. Mrs. Holmes and Miss Catherine Lippold.

The next meeting will be held November 23 at the home of Miss Katherine Preston, 455 Baltimore avenue, and Miss Bloss and Mrs. George Berry will be in charge of the program.

"We Have Planned It That Way"

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY, as almost everybody with any experience knows, is just about all these days. Take for example, the dividend of twenty-seven gallons of a share of Kentucky Bourbon whiskey, which the Tom Moore Distillery Company at Baltimore has announced would be paid to stockholders December 1, instead of cash. This was decided on because sale of the liquor and payment of an equivalent cash dividend would have involved too heavy a tax for the company to bear.

That looks like a bit of "velvet," a sort of windfall or at least a normal dividend, but it isn't. Although the stock jumped thirty points on the announcement, those who think of buying the stock just in order to get the twenty-seven gallons of Bourbon, might as well take the legal experts' advice and don't. One would be fairly thirsty by the time he got the whiskey and it would cost a pretty penny even if he could dig up the money.

In Maryland, for instance, because an individual cannot legally withdraw whiskey from a warehouse, a stockholder would have to take these steps:

Turn over to a licensed rectifier the warehouse receipt he would receive December 1 as his dividend, along with a $6 per gallon federal tax and a fee for bottling, labeling and capping;

See that the rectifier sent it to a licensed wholesaler, together with a $1.25 per gallon state tax;

See that the wholesaler sent it to a licensed retailer, since state law provides that individuals can buy only from retailers and retailers can buy only from wholesalers.

These taxes would run to around $190 to $200.

But that isn't all of the story. The stockholder would yet have to meet state and federal income taxes on it because the whiskey would be considered a dividend. These taxes would have to be paid on a sum equal to OPA ceilings on the quantity received.

No, investment opportunity is out, not only with whiskey but with almost everything else. No rewards are in sight for enterprise, ingenuity, good management, thrift, foresight nowadays. You see, according to the New Dealers, "we have planned it that way." About the only lucky guys, it would seem, are the bureaucrats.

Another Iron Cycle Begins

REMINISCENT of the historical fact that iron ore was mined and smelted in this region many, many years ago, many of the old iron ore mines in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, long abandoned as economically unprofitable, have been reopened and are being worked to fill the need for more and more iron to produce war materials. Some of these mines, idle since Civil War days or before, produced the ore which made cannon balls and harbor and river chains used by the ragged Continental army of 1775 to 1783.

The old mines have been considered marginal or even sub-marginal by modern economic standards, yet some of them contain ore of special quality, although many of them are "poor" by any standard. The magnetic deposits of the Adirondacks are low in iron, for instance, but lend themselves to cheap magnetic concentration which raises the iron content to more than sixty per cent, to make the venture worth while in the light of present-day needs.

This development is a reminder that the iron industry in America goes back to the time of the first settlements in the New England area. The Pilgrims discovered iron ore soon after they landed at Plymouth in 1620 and, after discouraging delays in the mother country, got the first ironworks going at Saugus, Mass., in 1644.

Connecticut opened its first ironworks in 1658, followed by Rhode Island, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, but it was not until the first half of the eighteenth century that the iron industry really attained a respectable size.

When the War for Independence began, the young nation's ironmasters sided with the patriots to a man. Military operations resulted in the destruction or abandonment of many famous ironworks, including Valley Forge. The seaboard iron industry never fully recovered from these setbacks, to which were added financial difficulties.

The westward tide had set in, reaching Pittsburgh in 1792, thus establishing the core of the modern steel industry which progressed farther west with the opening of the Great Lakes area iron ranges in 1854.

Thus a new war has resulted in a full cycle as the need for armaments has forced the reopening of iron mines which had a share in the victory of the freedom-loving colonists.

The "Leathernecks" Deserve Our Praise

THE "LEATHERNECKS"—meaning the United States Marine Corps—observed their anniversary this week, having been organized back in 1775 and being, therefore, 168 years old. All over the world, in foxholes, on shipboard and at remote air bases, these toughened fighters paused briefly yesterday in their job of winning the war to observe the event.

If any branch of the armed services deserves recognition and thanks of a grateful people, it is the marines, who have a glorious record of achievement and daring. Since 1775 they have been "first to fight for right and freedom," and they have done that in this war in greater numbers than ever before.

A typical story of the marine mettle was told some time back. Four of them were playing bridge in a small shed on Midway Island. A sentry rushed up, poked his head in the door and yelled that 200 Japs had just landed down on the beach.

"Oh, well," one of the quartet said in a bored tone, "I'm dummy—I'll go."

The story, though amusing, is typical of the regard held for the bravery and ability of these defenders.

This year, for the first time, women marines joined in the birthday observance as an actual part of the famous corps, shouldering the men's noncombatant duties ashore and thus relieving them for the fighting fronts.

Because people hereabout as well as elsewhere have many men and women in the marine corps, doing their utmost to bring speedy victory, they naturally have a keen interest in this milestone event and all join with them this week in the praise to which the history and traditions of this famous fighting branch distinctively deserve.

Armistice Day a Harbinger of Peace

ARMISTICE DAY, twenty-five years after the event it celebrates, lives on. It was popular, formerly, to say that Armistice day was different from other great days, that it would be remembered only as long as peace lasted.

Memorial day, it formerly was said, Americans shall always keep to "blow bugles over the rich dead" who know dawn no more or sunset and the colors of the earth and who, dying, "made us rarer gifts than gold."

Christmas day would remain, it was said, whatever of joy or sorrow comes, so long as there are children and men and women who become children.

Independence day would not allow America to forget its national natal day, even if a new calendar were to give it another place in the year.

The birthdays of Washington and Lincoln were to keep their February places, for their deeds have "bid in" these days for as long a time as the nation lives.

To Columbus day still others were in time, no doubt, to be added. And Thanksgiving day was to continue to be celebrated with every harvest, whether it be plentiful or lean.

But as these great national days continue to be celebrated, so will Armistice day be remembered while the nation lives—not as the day that marked the end of all wars, as it was hoped twenty-five years ago, but as marking the first great victory over the global forces of evil.

It was the knowledge that Germany was defeated in 1918, more than anything else, that gave civilization the courage and the inspiration to carry on in the dark days of 1941 and 1942. Although Armistice day did not bring permanent peace to the world, it was a harbinger of it and as such has won a permanent place in the calendar.

Ingratitude

By MARSHALL MASLIN

My friend, you asked me to write something about gratitude and ingratitude.

You told me that "the knife of ingratitude has cut me at times," and you wish me to write something that might remind some ungrateful wretch of the unpaid debt he owes to those who have helped him and shared their little when he begged them.

My friend, the task is too much for me. . . . Great writers have already said their say. Shakespeare, you must remember, wrote this on the subject: "Blow, blow, thou winter wind, thou art not so unkind as man's ingratitude;—freeze, freeze thou bitter sky, thou dost not bite so nigh as benefits dost." . . . And Shakespeare said:

"I hate ingratitude more in man than lying, vainness, babbling, drunkenness, or any taint of vice, whose strong corruption inhabits our frail blood."

The hatred of ingratitude was often in his mind and he spoke his thoughts freely on the subject. There's no need to attack ingratitude because it has no friends, no defenders, and even the ungrateful man finds excuse for his actions and denies his crime. . . . But there is a balm for ingratitude which any man may lay upon his spirit. The knives of selfishness and ingratitude cannot cut so deeply if you guard yourself with this miraculous compound of sense and understanding. . . . Say to yourself whenever you do help another:

"I do this for myself. I am moved by your need only. I grieved for your sufferings, I would not sleep soundly this night if I did not help you. If you thank me, if you love for the aid I give you, I shall be happy, thankful I have bound a friend to my side; but I have no right to ask any profit from this transaction. I have already, in my own self-approval, gained all that any man should seek."

"If you are ungrateful I shall be sad. If you turn against me and become my envious enemy, so much the worse for the meager spirit of man. It is your task, not mine, to think on gratitude and to turn my help on to some less fortunate than you. It is not mine to brood over your ingratitude and shape myself into a meaner and more selfish mortal than I was before I met you."

Take that for an armor against ingratitude.

Lawrence Believes End of European War Is Year Off

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The wave of wishful thinking which the war department by its series of conferences recently attempted to dispel seems to have returned. Those who say "the war is going to be over before Christmas" are getting a receptive hearing again.

Some of the rueful peace which have forced the stock market down this week are evidence of the widespread belief that something is going on behind the scenes which will bring about a sudden ending of the war.

Prime Minister Churchill in his latest address shows he is cognizant of this kind of talk and attempts to squelch it.

What probably is happening is that the smaller Balkan countries are trying by one means or another to extricate themselves from Hitler's yoke, and no doubt this leads to rumors in Madrid and Lisbon and other neutral capitals. The moment the Balkans crumble, the wishful thinkers surmise that Germany will collapse.

Actually the situation is truthfully portrayed by the prime minister. There are harder days ahead than we have lived through. German morale may break sooner than expected, but the preponderant belief is that not until the Allies demonstrate that they can invade the French coast and maintain a bridgehead and support a sizable army and make advances toward the Rhine will the German people begin to believe that the jig is up and that peace must be obtained at any terms.

Air Power Not Enough

The air war over Germany has accomplished a great deal, but the extremists have misled the American people into believing this war can be won by air power alone. No responsible officer of the air services really believes this will happen. The fact is that air power is preparing the way for an invasion by damaging German production, but its effectiveness in a tactical way, along with an invading army in Western Europe, remains to be demonstrated.

The public evidently likes to believe the optimistic side. It hasn't noticed the reports of the air raids in recent days. It hasn't noticed that our Flying Fortresses have not made any long raids into the interior of Germany but have been confined to the relatively narrow areas and radius within which the protection of the short-range fighter planes can be given.

May Be Rocket Bomb

Perhaps it is the German rocket bomb which has prevented unscathed Flying Fortresses from penetrating far into Germany for daylight attack. Perhaps it is some other reason of tactics, but until the Allies get more usable bases on Russian and Italian territory from which fighter planes can be flown it may be that we shall see a lull in strategic air bombing of far-off targets in daylight.

The Hitler speech was read by many people as a sign of Nazi weakness. His frequent references to November, 1918, as if he feared history might repeat itself undoubtedly give the wishful thinkers in America some support for their surmises. But military men cannot depend on surmises. And the assumption here among military men is that only when an invasion army has landed and begun to beat the Germans on a new western front on the continent of Europe will the end of the war come into sight.

Meanwhile, the speech of Stalin, which indicated that a second front was coming soon, and the speech by Churchill, warning the British and American peoples of heavy losses soon to be incurred, may be taken as a more reliable indication of the way the war is going than the peace rumors on the stock market.

Another Year Yet

The war can be brought to a close in Europe sometime in 1944 if our military plans work out successfully, but the probabilities are that the summer and autumn of 1944 will see the climax rather than

Baruch Plan Delivers Goods

From the Uniontown, Pa., Morning Herald

Satisfactory as it is to note that the nation's aircraft production in October nearly 8,000, is a rate of almost 100,000 a year, it is even more pleasing to learn that the special West Coast program has helped to alleviate the manpower difficulties that for months cut down output there.

The program devised by Bernard M. Baruch and John Hancock during the summer, dealt with problems of high turnover draft losses and numerous other conditions and laid down a series of proposals which, when published in August, were widely hailed as of potential value elsewhere in the country.

The Baruch-Hancock report presented no glittering new schemes, but mainly the idea of methodical, earnest attack on a series of subsidiary problems which had become rolled into one big and apparently insuperable labor shortage.

It is not surprising that good results have been attained. Its extension to other areas, favored by officials at Washington, would be logical.

Fields Come Closer

These fields are now getting in closer and closer and such improvements have been made in our machines and technique that our bombers can have fighter protection which will further weaken Germany's defenses. Thus Hitler, six weeks ago lost his power to fulfill either his promises to the German people or his threats to us, and now even pretense of hope cannot longer be sustained. In fact, the main significance of Hitler's speech was the large portion of it he devoted to threatening his own people about what he would do to them if they give in, despite him.

A man whom I believe is the best judge in the stock market does not believe the Nazis can last in the face of these prospects more than sixty to ninety days more, and I would not doubt but what his guess

HE'S BITTEN OFF MORE THAN HE CAN CHEW

Mallon Sees End of the War in Europe As Likely within Sixty to Ninety Days

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The stock market has been saying, in fact shrieking off and on, that the war is near an end in Europe. It knows whereof it speaks.

This latest trend toward optimism was started officially about ten days back when Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, called a press conference to say the war might "end suddenly, that anything could happen in Germany now. He would not have spoken without sound ground. The have been sending men into Germany by parachute all along and these men have getting back to Britain with eye-witness accounts. Anonymous reports from London lately thus have pictured Germany as a madhouse from bombing.

Hitler pretended in his speech that he was resting his army, impliedly to meet invasion by the British and Americans in France or the Lowlands. True, he has about forty unused divisions there (reserves (a formidable force of 600,000 men). He also has some unused reserves in Germany. But the bulk and the cream of his army is not only being used in Russia and Italy, but used up. His troops on the Southern Russian front are demoralized.

Only a month and a half ago, Hitler promised the German people that he would stop our bombings with a new secret weapon. He was talking of the aerial rocket gun which was then put into combat. It not only failed to put a stop to the bombings, but our losses have lately sharply declined.

Our communiques significantly no longer speak of these bombings as "raids." Now they are officially proclaimed as "attacks," meaning full-fledged military operations, not just air cavalry harrassments. In a very short time, Hitler will appreciate the full meaning of the change of language. The defect in our system of air attacks has been that we must come into Germany on one line, from one point and return to one point, Britain. It is revealing no military secret (in fact we want Hitler to know) that the big Italian air bombing fields at Foggia are now about ready to launch at him from a new direction, and that Russia approaching the Polish and Rumanian borders is now reaching air positions from which attacks will be launched upon Germany from a third side.

Fields Come Closer

These fields are now getting in closer and closer and such improvements have been made in our machines and technique that our bombers can have fighter protection which will further weaken Germany's defenses. Thus Hitler, six weeks ago lost his power to fulfill either his promises to the German people or his threats to us, and now even pretense of hope cannot longer be sustained. In fact, the main significance of Hitler's speech was the large portion of it he devoted to threatening his own people about what he would do to them if they give in, despite him.

A man whom I believe is the best judge in the stock market does not believe the Nazis can last in the face of these prospects more than sixty to ninety days more, and I would not doubt but what his guess might prove correct. I know of a manager of a Fifth Avenue hotel who has been receiving letters from people asking reservations for a victory parade which has not even been scheduled or considered. That kind of guessing costs less money than the stock market and is more indefinite.

Sound Military Basis

It is true that some officials will speak of a costly campaign of invasion to come in 1944, but they generally also mention "decisive events" which they say are at hand. They are likewise on sound military ground, even if events make them seem unreasonable. A general naturally must measure war prospects upon his own plans rather than in unexpected capitulation of an enemy.

For some time also an unhappy situation has prevailed from the belief of certain officials that the long war prospects had to be stressed to keep the people working at utmost pitch. This belief carried a questionable inference, not only on the patriotism of the people, but a downright underestimate of their desire to win this war and a woeful miscalculation of their ability to understand events themselves. It was both unjustified and unwise. Facts are always the best propaganda.

Nothing To Gain

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

The administration's complete case for food subsidies is that in no other way can inflation be held in check. If, argues Judge Vinson to Congress, food subsidies are not paid, the cost of food will advance. If the cost of food advances, workmen will demand higher wages and the inflation spiral will be on its way.

From all of this it might be assumed that the cost of living has not advanced and that workmen have not demanded wage increases; that the inflation line has been held, but is bending and must be buttressed with subsidy cash. The truth of the matter is, of course, that prices have continued to advance, that inferior substitutes in some cases have taken the place of better products thus adding a definite if unapparent item to the cost of budget, and that almost all industrial workers are demanding or preparing to demand higher wages.

So that some of the things Judge Vinson says will happen if subsidies are denied already are happening. We doubt if subsidies would stop them. Certainly they would not halt the demand for higher wages.

But even if they did both halt the advance in food costs and check the pressure for higher wages the relief would be entirely fictitious. All that would happen would be that people would be paying in taxes money which they otherwise would pay directly to tradesmen. They would gain nothing and they would add to the complexities and expense of government.

The basic failure of our price control program, of course, was the original failure to freeze at one stroke all prices and costs and wages and salaries. It is too late to correct that fault now, perhaps. So if the cost of living must continue to rise, we would rather see it rise naturally than under the camouflage of a subsidy.

Contract Vetoed

Third: The administration, through the War Labor Board, vetoes this contract, prevents the mine owners from making it. The reason given by the Labor Board is that the rate of pay fixed in the contract is too high—that it would lead to inflation.

Fourth: In this situation the administration, through another agency, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, takes over the mines. Thereupon the administration itself, through Mr. Ickes, makes a contract with Mr. Lewis. This contract, made by the administration, gives Mr. Lewis substantially the same wages that the administration forbade the mine owners to give.

To sum that sequence up: Here are the private mine owners willing to give Mr. Lewis an increase in wages. Here is the administration forbidding the private mine owners to give this increase. And here is the administration itself giving substantially the same increase.

In that sequence of events are serious implications. One is that, to labor unions, government operation of an industry is preferable to private operation. To anybody who wishes to bring about transfer from private operation to government operation, this would seem to be a way to further the process.

Owners Not To Blame

Turn to another aspect: For the coal strike, the mine owners were not responsible—they were willing to grant the wage increase Mr. Lewis demanded. For the strike, Mr. Lewis and his union had the responsibility. But who is penalized? Mr. Lewis and his union are not penalized. They are rewarded, they are given the increase in pay they demanded. But the owners of the coal mines are penalized—their property is taken away from them. Logically, if anything were to be taken over by the government, it should have been Mr. Lewis' union.

One aspect of the situation is at once serious—and almost humorous. The administration, in taking over the coal mines, operates them under the same conditions of employment as the private owners. The administration practices the closed shop and the "check-off." The administration employs no miner unless he is a member of Mr. Lewis' union. The dues are paid by the administration into the treasury of Mr. Lewis' union. Thus the administration increases Mr. Lewis' power, "Consequences Plain

Coal Settlement Is Inflation Booster, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

About the nature and consequences of the course of President Roosevelt and the administration with Mr. John L. Lewis and his miners' union, probably much is understood by the public. But some implications go farther than, probably, the public realizes yet. To make one serious implication clear, consider the sequence of events.

First: The government compels the private mine owners to deal with Mr. Lewis and his union—to make contracts with him, and with him exclusively. This compulsion is extremely rigid—the mine owners are forbidden to employ a single miner unless he is a member of Mr. Lewis' union. This compulsion is accomplished by the Wagner Labor Relations act (passed in 1935), by decisions of the Labor Relations Board under that act; and also by the decision, two years ago, of a board appointed by President Roosevelt which granted a demand by Mr. Lewis for the closed shop.

Second: Under this compulsion, some mine owners make a contract with Mr. Lewis.

Third: The administration, through the War Labor Board, vetoes this contract, prevents the mine owners from making it. The reason given by the Labor Board is that the rate of pay fixed in the contract is too high—that it would lead to inflation.

Fourth: In this situation the administration, through another agency, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, takes over the mines. Thereupon the administration itself, through Mr. Ickes, makes a contract with Mr. Lewis. This contract, made by the administration, gives Mr. Lewis substantially the same wages that the administration forbade the mine owners to give.

When you feel listless, pepless "Just Not Yourself"

Do you have "off" days when you almost have to leave yourself to get any work done? ... Are you losing precious time from your job because your nerves have the best of you—because you get "plazed out" easily and feel peepless, tired and rundown?

Often, when people feel that way, it's because their blood is low in iron. And if that's your trouble, good old Gude's Pepto-Mangan may be just what you need to help you get back your strength and endurance.

Pepto-Mangan helps make the blood redder and richer in iron. It supplies the body with an extra reserve of iron—so essential for radiant pep, vigor and vitality. Many doctors prescribe it for convalescents after operations and illness, and for pale, rundown and growing children whose blood is deficient in iron. Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists with a money-back guarantee of satisfaction! Ask for the original and only Gude's Pepto-Mangan!

1,600 Cases of Whiskey Hi-Jacked from Trucks

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10 (AP)—A leading Maryland distillery accented the state's liquor shortage today with a report that some 1,600 cases of its whiskey had been hi-jacked in three truck thefts—all outside

Maryland's borders—during the last several weeks.

The distillery said one of its trucks, carrying 600 cases, was stolen in New York, a second with the same size cargo in New Jersey and the third, a 400-case load, in Ohio.

The three cargoes were valued at approximately $37,000.

At the same time, the Maryland committee of the conference of alcoholic beverage industries, disclosed a campaign to combat black market activities in this area.

Officials of the committee said that while there has been little evidence of such illegal activity, the group aims to maintain a steady flow of liquor products.

Representatives of the industry expressed the belief that current shortages were caused principally by scare-buying.

Inmates of the Ohio state prison work night shifts because of the large amount of work Ohio prisons are doing for the armed forces.

Solid Fuels Regime Relaxes Regulations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Solid Fuels Administration today relaxed its emergency regulations to permit soft coal deliveries to consumers who have less than thirty-day supply. Previously only those with less than a ten-day supply could get deliveries.

However, the ban on delivery of hard coal to consumers having more than a ten-day supply still stands. Under the new bituminous regulation, consumers other than householders may receive sufficient quantities to bring their stocks up to a thirty-day reserve. No restriction is placed on the quantity which may be delivered to householders with less than a thirty-day stock.

In one active day in North Africa, the Allied Air Forces consumed 1,500,000 gallons of high octane gasoline.

China To Establish Constitutional Rule

CHUNGKING, Nov. 10 (AP)—The intention of the government to establish a constitutional rule as soon as possible after the war was started today by Liang Han-Chao, minister of information, in answer to what he termed skepticism about China becoming a democracy.

Pointing out that the committee for promoting the realization of constitutional government would hold its first general meeting Saturday and would seek to effect a new districting system designed to carry representation down to the basic family unit, Liang said "some westerners" have misunderstood China's real situation.

Joseph J. Sullivan, fullback from Pittsburgh, gained only five yards in one afternoon but it was enough to give Navy its first touchdown this season.

When Notre Dame's Angelo Bertelli first hit the headlines in 1941 he was called the Springfield Rifle. The passing wizard comes from West Springfield, Mass.

A special supervisor training course now is conducted in Sacramento by the state training officer for thirty-two supervisors representing eleven state departments.

Have a Coca-Cola = What's the good word?

...or how to get along with folks

Your American soldier carries the keys to comradeship wherever he goes. Have a "Coke", says he to the eager youngsters at home, and it's like saying, What's the good word? It's a phrase that's understood in New Zealand or New-Port, at home or in far-off places. Around the world Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the gesture of good will, saying Let's be friends.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Tomorrow is a lovely Word
Norie Blizard

SYNOPSIS
Roommates and cousins, BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tenseness accompanying America's entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.

YESTERDAY, Beth and Andrea have a stormy session when Beth reveals that she is going to Washington to work and that she got her job through Dennis Archer.

CHAPTER TWELVE
SHOES WRAPPED in tissue paper. The new umbrella the girls in the bridge club had given her in its slushy case. Stockings rolled in tight little balls. Creams and lotions in a waterproof bag. Her two black dresses, gray flannel skirt, blouses and sweaters, one dinner dress and her new cotton housecoat. A mound of freshly mended and laundered underwear (a very small mound).

DOCTORS WARN CONSTIPATED FOLKS ABOUT LAZY LIVER

Constipation is often accompanied by many discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. And here's good advice!

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully relieved scores of patients from constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists from coast to coast.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but also stir up liver bile flow. Test their goodness TONIGHT to feel "tip-top" in the morning. 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. Follow label directions.

Beth laughed faintly and pointed out that Andrea had got her blouse into the wrong lot.

"You take it," Andrea insisted gruffly. "I'll get it back when I come to visit you. I am coming you know. Some time when I'm visiting Jim. Maybe in October. I'm putting my vacation ahead."

Beth went back to the kitchen to weep a few tears over her omelet, well aware that the tears were those of excitement and not of sadness. She'd be all right if she could only keep from thinking all the things she'd been thinking all night.

Jim and I used to get meals in this kitchen. That was Jim's chair in the living room. Jim planned off the bottom of the bathroom door when it stuck. Jim fixed the venetian blind in the bedroom. Jim was here. Jim was there. This reminded her of Jim. That reminded her of Jim. Everything reminded her of Jim, and Jim was what she wanted to forget.

Her train was to leave at three. They were getting ready to leave.

IF HEAD COLDS HANG-ON

DO THIS! To relieve discomforts, one of the best things you can do is put a good spoonful of home-tested Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water.

Then feel the wonderful relief come as you breathe in the steamy medicated vapors that penetrate to the cold-congested upper breathing passages! See how this soothes irritation, quiets coughing, and helps clear the head-bringing grand comfort.

FOR ADDED RELIEF... rub throat, chest and back with VapoRub at bedtime. Vicks VapoRub works for hours—2 ways at once—to bring relief from distress. Remember—it's Vicks VapoRub you want.

the house at half-past two when the telephone rang.

Andrea answered it and Beth heard the catch in her voice when she said "Hello." The second time she said, "Yes... Fine, thanks stranger... Who? Yes, she's right here." She beckoned to Beth.

Beth said, "Hello."

"Hello, Miss Kinnan. Dennis Archer. Just rang up to see if you and Slade made a deal."

Beth cast an eye over her shoulder. Andrea was lighting a cigarette with an air of unconcern. Beth said, "Yes, thank you, Mr. Archer. I'm on my way to Washington right this minute. I would have telephoned to thank you, but I didn't want to trouble you... I planned to write you a note from Washington to thank you."

"Never mind the note. Perhaps we'll meet in Washington sometime."

"That would be nice," Beth murmured. "Thank you very much again, and for calling, too."

She hung up abruptly, noting the time.

Andrea said, "Why did you hang up? He wanted to speak to me."

"Come on. I can't miss that train. Mrs. Golden is meeting it." She shoved Andrea ahead of her.

Going down town in the taxicab, Andrea said, "What did you say would be nice?"

Beth wasn't lying when she said she couldn't remember, but Andrea never forgot that, and that was not the end of the matter.

Some of the other girls, Peg, Ruth Willet and Marcia White, were waiting at the station to see Beth off. They had magazines and a corsage of gardenias for her. Beth felt a little like a bride when the train finally started, what with flowers and a new hat and gloves and friends fluttering about her.

"Mind you," Ruth called, "don't lose Mrs. Golden's address. If you get lost—or she isn't there—call the White House. There's always an extra room."

"Write," they called. "Tell us everything."

"I will!" she promised, waving her hat, wiped the mist out of her eyes and saw that her seat companion was a young man who couldn't suppress the smile that hovered at the corners of his wide, pleasantly ugly mouth. Later, when they were having dinner together in the diner as the train sped through Wilmington, she noted other things in fine style. Beth was so overcome about him; his wiry red hair, the powdering of big freckles on his nose, the way his hair grew in

Theaters

"Sergeant York" Here For Re-engagement

The Liberty theater's current attraction is a return engagement of Warner Brothers' "Sergeant York" the picturization of the life of America's great living hero who has recently been made a major in the United States Army. Gary Cooper is starred in the role for which he was given the Academy Award. Joan Leslie, Walter Brennan, George Tobias, Stanley Ridges, Margaret Wyckoff and Ward Bond head the huge and able supporting cast.

A screw driver is called a screw puller in Germany.

Bogart Smashes Nazi Platoon in "Sahara"

Humphrey Bogart, the sensational star of "Casablanca" here at last in the mighty story of epic war in the desert. Columbia's new dramatic thrill picture "Sahara" is now showing at the Maryland theater in all its heart-stirring splendor! It is emotional, memorable this strange saga of the Libyan campaign... telling of the night-and-day adventures... the life and death battles... the shoulder-to-shoulder loyalty of a group of Allied fighters led by tough Sergeant Gunn, the role played by Mr. Bogart, through a treacherous stretch of sandy wastes! Sergeant Gunn, who loved his tank "Lulu" as he would love a woman.

Colorful Cowboy Raised on Ranch

Republic's "Wagon Tracks West," which opens today at the Embassy theater stars Wild Bill Elliott, one of the most colorful cowboy stars ever put under contract by the studio.

He was brought up on his grandfather's ranch in Missouri and his earliest childhood memories are those of the old muskets hanging over every doorway in readiness for any emergency. One of the early pioneers in his section, his grandfather kept to the traditions of the old west right up to the time of his death.

George "Gabby" Hayes gives valuable support to Elliott in "Wagon Tracks West."

Robert Donat Stars In Garden Picture

Robert Donat is starred in "The Young Mr. Pitt," now playing at the Garden theater. The cast includes Geoffrey Atkins, Jean Cadell, Robert Morley and Phyllis Calvert. The co-feature at the Garden today is "After Midnight with Boston Blackie." Chester Morris is starred.

Draftees Called

The next group of men in the Selective Service of Tucker county will be called for induction on November 26 and November 30, draft board officials announced today.

Marriage Announced

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Josephine E. Treiber, of Scotland, South Dakota, and Washington, D. C., daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth I. Treiber, of Washington, D. C., to Pfc. Kenneth Felton, of Fort Meyer, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Felton, of Parsons.

The double ring service was read in the post chapel, Fort Meyer, Va., on Tuesday morning, November 9, at 8:30 a. m., with the post chaplain, the Rev. T. W. B. Magnan, officiating.

The bride was attired in a street length two piece dress of maroon velvet with blue accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. Her only attendant was Mrs. Jack MacElhose, of Washington, D. C., who wore a street length suit of blue-grey wool with wine accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Fred Felton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Felton is a graduate of Yankton college and of South Dakota State college and is employed in Washington, D. C.

Pfc. Felton is a graduate of Parsons high school, class of 1939, and attended Berea college, Berea, Ky. He is now stationed with the ceremonial detachment in the military district of Washington, D. C.

A wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families at the Mayflower hotel in Washington, immediately following the ceremony, after which the newlyweds left for a short honeymoon to be spent in New York. They will reside in Washington, D. C.

Brief Mention

Two new members, Denzil Kee and Dr. Guy Michaels, of Parsons, were admitted to membership in the River City club at a meeting in the Main Street restaurant, Parsons.

Pvt. Wood W. Nestor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nestor, of Parsons, has now landed in England with the engineer division, according to word received here by his parents. He is a former employee of the Armour Leather Company of Parsons.

tuffs above his temples, the bony structure of his big frame, the nice homely friendliness of his face, the burr in his western drawl. But that was later.

She spoke to him first, prefacing her opening with an embarrassed smile. "I guess it sounds as if I'd never been away from home before, doesn't it?" she said.

"Have you?" he asked.

She laughed and said, "No."

"Nice to have folks see you off. Vacation?"

Beth knew better than to speak to strangers on a train, but telling him about her new job, she felt he was not a stranger.

He told her about himself, too. His name was Vernon Blake and he came from California. He "kind of tinkered around motors." He and his brother owned a garage in Los Angeles. Bert ("My brother") had a good job in Washington. Vernon was spending a little time there. He might stay. He'd tried to enlist, but the services wouldn't take him. He mumbled something about rheumatic fever.

He was a pleasant train companion. Beth was surprised to find the train trip so short, surprised to find that she hadn't thought about Jim once on the whole journey, and then they were pulling into Washington and she was nearly suffocated with excitement.

She was scarcely aware of her new-found friend at her side as he guided her to the Travelers Aid station, where she was to be met by Mrs. Golden, who would know her by the clothes she had described by letter.

The station was teeming with activity even at that hour and, for one bad moment, Beth wondered what she'd do if Helen Golden were not there.

But she was. A small girl with a broad smile, she welcomed Beth with a friendliness that made Beth feel she was coming to visit a long, lost friend. It was, incidentally, a friendliness that she met everywhere in Washington.

Then there were introductions. "Mrs. Golden, this is Vernon Blake. My husband, John Golden, Miss 'bimman." And Beth was whisked away in the Golden's car.

A sense of high excitement intoxicated her. She was in Washington. Anything could happen now. The past was done. Everything was in back of her. Andrea and Jim. She was free.

Scout Officials Hold Meeting In Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE, Nov. 10 — Harry Gibbons, district commissioner of the Potomac District of the Boy Scouts of America, and Dr. Albert C. Cook, chairman of the leaders' training committee, held a Boy Scout Charter review preparatory to re-registering the local troop for the coming year Monday evening in the high school auditorium.

Questions were directed to the sponsoring group present as well as to members of the troop committee. The meeting was on the order of an open forum and various questions dealing with Scouting were discussed.

One of the main topics was the renovation and repairing of the newly acquired Boy Scout headquarters here. It had been formerly decided to complete only the hall this year but plans were made Monday night to complete the entire project. The visiting officials gave information and suggestions as to how the work may be accomplished. Ways and means for securing funds were also discussed.

Other guests of honor included the members of the Mt. Savage Boy Scout committee. George Houck, scoutmaster, presided over the troop. An important meeting of the troop will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the recreation hall of the Methodist church.

Sewing Classes Open

Knitting and sewing classes for the Mt. Savage Senior Girl Scout troop opened last night in the recreation hall of the Methodist church after the regular troop meeting. Mrs. Harry Poland and Mrs. B. O. Cokerly were knitting instructors and Mrs. Mary Garlitz taught the sewing class.

Brief Item

The Citizens and Veterans club will meet tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Junior Order hall. Reports will be made on the drive for funds to erect the memorial in honor of local servicemen.

Gov. O'Connor Declines Comment on Small

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 10. (AP)—The question of whether or not Frank Small, Jr., chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, will continue in that capacity after the current joint race meeting at Pimlico remained unanswered today when Governor O'Connor declined comment.

The possibility that another member of the three-man commission might be selected to replace Small as chairman was seen by horsemen. They cited the fact that Small is a Republican while H. Courtenay Jenifer and George P. Mahoney are Democrats.

O'Connor told newsmen that "I appointed all the gentlemen on the commission and, since it is functioning now, it is not a matter on which I must act now."

'Mickey' Witek Inducted Into U. S. Coast Guard

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 10. (AP)—Nicholas "Mickey" Witek, 27-year-old second baseman of the New York Giants, was inducted into the United States Coast Guard today at Wilkes-Barre induction center.

His brother, Michael, 18, was accepted into the same service. Major Samuel Block, head of the induction center, said they will report for boot training next Wednesday at Manhattan Beach, N. Y.

Witek's hometown is Luzerne Borough, near here.

John March of Chicago won the 1942 Futurity with Occupation, and that Peters' body was found about 1,600 yards below the spot where he won the 1943 feature at Belmont and five other soldiers had attempted to cross Tom's creek when their retreat to a nearby highway was cut off during the wind and rain storm.

His companions clung to a tree for five hours until they were rescued by other soldiers and state police.

Body of Sistersville Soldier Is Recovered

BAITMORE, Nov. 10. (AP)—Peter A. Peters, 33, of Sistersville, W. Va., was identified today by army officials as the soldier who was drowned while crossing the swollen waters of a creek near Emmitsburg on Monday night.

The Third Service Command said that Peters' body was found about 1,600 yards below the spot where he won the 1943 feature at Belmont and five other soldiers had attempted to cross Tom's creek when their retreat to a nearby highway was cut off during the wind and rain storm.

His companions clung to a tree for five hours until they were rescued by other soldiers and state police.

Duck, Goose Hunters Urged To Save Feathers

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10. (AP)—E. Lee LeCompte, Maryland state game warden, urged hunters of wild waterfowl today to save wild duck and goose feathers which are badly needed for the war effort.

Feathers are a factor in determining the number of fighting men who can be sent into an Arctic campaign. LeCompte said, since men sent on these expeditions must have sleeping bags made with the feathers.

The game warden said the feathers sell at eighty-eight cents a pound for wild duck feathers and ninety-nine cents for wild goose feathers.

Curtis Bay Cagers Will Open Nov. 24

BAITMORE, Nov. 10. (AP)—The basketball squad of the Curtis Bay Coast Guard will open its campaign with Fort Meade on Nov. 24 in Baltimore. Manager Fred Lillis, storekeeper second class, announced today.

One of the outstanding teams in the land, said Manager Lillis, is the Norfolk Navy, and that crew of cagers will play in Baltimore on Nov. 30.

Gus Lesnevich May Meet British Boxer

Former Phils, Nats Owner Dies at 82

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10. (AP)—J. Earl Wagner, one-time owner of the Phillies, of the National Baseball League and the Washington Senators died today after a three-month illness. He was 82.

Wagner, president of Wagner Brothers, ship outfitters, owned the Phillies, and Senators for brief periods more than forty years ago.

As owner of the Washington club, he completed a cash deal for two players he wanted, and a catcher who was "thrown in." The catcher was Connie Mack, now owner of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Wagner was a native of York, Pa.

Dutch Dehnert, pivot man for the Original Celtics basketball team, sold $5 mutual tickets during the New York racing season.

Maryland Horsemen Will Employ Agent

BAITMORE, Nov. 10. (AP)—Owners and trainers belonging to the Maryland Horsemen's Protective Association have pledged to give a portion of each winning purse towards a fund for the employment of a liaison agent.

The membership decided to put one per cent of each purse, the amount not to exceed $10, to a sum to be used principally for employment of an agent to carry out the association's plans for betterment of racing.

Approximately 175 attended the annual meeting in Baltimore last night, presided over by President J. Fred Adams.

The deduction plan will go into effect with the opening of the spring season in Maryland.

Adams, who was re-appointed president of the association at the meeting, said that in time the amount gained through the one per cent plan should be sufficient to also provide a fund to aid distressed horsemen.

Organized Junior Soccer Proposed

BAITMORE, Nov. 10. (AP)—Gene Ringsdorf, vice-president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Soccer Association, said today that an effort would be made to stage a junior soccer comeback.

All boys under 12 years old will now be admitted to major league games and those between 12 and 15 will be required to pay a six-cent tax. Ringsdorf stated that the move is made through the co-operation of the management of the Baltimore Americans and Baltimore Soccer club.

Formerly, only boys affiliated with organized teams were admitted free to games at Bugle field. The new policy is in line with a plan being encouraged throughout the American League.

Although the Maryland Scholastic Association Soccer League was scheduled to close its season yesterday, each team has at least one postponed match because of weather conditions.

"We plan to organize a three-division junior league, the under 18-year-old group to play on Sundays, and the under 15 and 12-year-old sections to play Saturday soccer," Ringsdorf said.

"The state association will furnish the referees and balls for all junior matches. We also are trying to interest older players to coach and manage the smaller teams to assure capable supervision."

Durocher Gets Ready To Travel Overseas

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (AP)—Now that his job's safe again—for a while anyway—Leo the Lip Durocher is packing a bag to go overseas and entertain the troops this winter. He and his pal, Comedian Danny Kaye, have a skit worked up in which Danny is an umpire and the Lip is an ump-batter.

Grey Wing Takes Grayson Handicap

BAITMORE, Nov. 10. (AP)—Grey Wing ran a front-running race to carry the blue and gold colors of Mrs. Tiliou Christopher to victory in the sixth running of the $7,500 added Grayson handicap before a crowd of approximately 12,000 persons at Pimlico today.

Carrying 116 pounds, which included Jockey Jack Westrope, Grey Wing took the start at the gate, and except for one brief challenge by Belair stud's Triarch, was never in any danger.

At the wire, the winning son Halcyon held a two length advantage over Triarch which was other two and a half lengths in front of J. B. Balding's Harford.

Greentree stable's Corydon was fourth and T. D. Buhl's Sweep Swinger last in the five-horse field.

Grey Wing covered the mile and a half in 2:35 3-5 to earn a purse of $6,225 and boost his earnings for the year to $22,140.

It was his eighth triumph in twenty-two starts.

The winner had been backed into even-money favoritism by the crowd, and rewarded his backers at the rate of $4.00, $3.30 and $2.50 for $2 at the mutuels.

Middies Face Long Drill This Afternoon

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 10. (AP)—A number of colds among the members of the Navy football team limited scrimmage to another day of line workouts with a long practice slated for tomorrow afternoon.

The Middies will leave Annapolis at noon Friday for New York to challenge Columbia university on Saturday. The Midshipmen will not accompany the gridiron warriors of the academy to New York due to lack of transportation facilities.

LaSalle and Fort Hill Will Oppose Tough Grid Rivals Here This Week

Explorers Meet Keyser Tomorrow, Sentinels Play Hagerstown Saturday

The LaSalle High Explorers and the undefeated Fort Hill High Sentinels are preparing to battle it out with tough opponents this week at the Fort Hill stadium.

The Explorers, who handed Allegany's Campers a 9-0 setback last week, will tangle with the Keyser (W. Va.) High Golden Tornado eleven tomorrow night at 8 o'clock while Saturday afternoon, the Sentinels and Hagerstown high gridders will collide in an important Cumberland Valley Athletic League engagement.

After this week's games, there will be only one more contest at the Fort Hill bowl—on Thanksgiving day when the Hilltoppers and Allegany meet in their annual classic.

Cochs Phil Carolan, of LaSalle, who goes into military service next week, announced last night that Bill Nelson, regular fullback, is still in the hospital with a knee injury. "Doc" Daugherty will take over Nelson's assignment for the only change in the Explorers' starting lineup.

Norman Geatz, end who scored LaSalle's touchdown against Allegany last Friday night, is nursing a hip injury but probably will be in condition to start tomorrow's contest. Officials will be "Bobby" Cavanaugh, referee; Ed Milbrada, umpire, and John Angelotta, head linesman.

Keyser Has Veteran Eleven
LaSalle officials have designated the clash, which will bring the Explorers' 1943 season to a close, as "Carolan night." Carolan will also be feted at a special assembly of the student body tomorrow afternoon.

The LaSalle-Keyser game carries no title significance but has stirred up a lot of interest. The Golden Tornado hasn't been topped since losing to Fort Hill in the opener for both clubs, coming back from that setback to capture the Potomac Valley Conference championship.

Every one of Keyser's probable starters was on the squad last season. According to Coach Fred "Tack" Clark, the West Virginians will be at top strength.

Walter Mott and Bill Trenum will be at the ends, Edward Conroy and William Hartman at the tackles, Bill Smith and Val Hampton at the

Hagerstown Seeks Title
Saturday's collision between Coach Mel "Newt" Henry's Sentinels and Eddie Semler's Maroon and Gray Hagerstown gridders will be a meeting of undefeated teams.

Hagerstown has yielded only one touchdown in rolling to victories over Allegany, Charles Town, Martinsburg and Handley, and a triumph over Fort Hill would give the Hub City eleven the CVAL crown.

Fort Hill also has topped Martinsburg and Handley and must down Hagerstown to stay in the running for the CVAL title. Even though the Sentinels defeat the Semlerites, the Henrymen would need a victory over Allegany to escape a final standing tie with Hagerstown.

The Fort Hill squad should be at top strength. The Sentinels have been idle since routing the Handley High Juggies at Winchester, Va., on October 30, 39-13, for their sixth straight conquest.

Walter "Bill" Bowers's Alleganyans, thrown for a loss in their intra-city series opener last week, still have an outside chance to share CVAL honors but they will have to get by the Martinsburg High Bulldogs in a game at Martinsburg, W. Va., Saturday afternoon to stay in the running.

Romey To End Season
The Campers weren't at all impressive in losing to LaSalle and will have to show more than they did last week to prevent another defeat. The scrappy Bulldogs haven't won a CVAL clash yet but gave Fort Hill quite a battle before losing by the margin of two extra points.

A number of district scholastic eleven have completed campaigns but this week's program calls for two other games of sectional interest. Romey's Pioneers, with a loss to Charles Town and a tie with Keyser as the only blotches on their record, will close against the Handley High Juggies at Winchester, Va., tomorrow, and the Bekeley Springs (W. Va.) Indians and Charles Town will ring down the curtain by meeting at Charles Town on Saturday.

Georgia Tech was the only team to score more than ten points against Navy in 1942. The Golden Tornado won, 21-0.

The longest forward pass completion not resulting in a touchdown during 1942 was an eighty-one yard gain.

Bears Take Full Command of Pro Loop Statistics

Packers Forced To Take Two Back Seats and Redskins One

By DAVE HOFF

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 (AP)—It was bound to happen sooner or later—and last weekend it did. The Washington Redskins took a setback in their passing game and the Green Bay Packers suffered likewise in their ground attack. But the Chicago Bears had another field day and for the first time this season emerged supreme as pro football's top offensive team.

Nudged out in one statistic or another by the Packers or Redskins all fall, the Bears today are No. 1 in total offense—rushing and passing—with 384.1 yards a game, first in rushing with 167 yards a game, and foremost in passing with 217.1 yards each contest.

Thus for the fourth time since the National Football League's team figures were first compiled in 1932, the Bears are on the way to total domination of the circuit in yardage gained. They did it before in 1932, 1939 and 1941. Last year they were first in total offense and yards rushing, but were nosed out by Green Bay in aerials.

Redskin Defense Shines
Behind these 1943 Bears' formidable ability to roll up yards and smother opponents, the Packers took two back seats and Washington one. Green Bay is the runnerup in total offense with 335.4 yards and in rushing with 158.3 yards, while the Redskins tag along back of the Bears with 198.4 yards a game by passing.

But the reason the championship Washington team is holding the whip in the Eastern division is its excellent defense. The Redskins are first in total defense and passing defense, limiting foes to 182 yards a game by all methods and to 104.6 yards a contest via aerials.

And their rushing defense mark of 77.8 yards for the opposition is second only to Phil-Pitt's amazing sixty-four yard average.

Last Sunday Washington was snarled by Phil-Pitt's general all-around good defense and bagged only sixty-two yards rushing and 147 yards passing. Meanwhile Green Bay was held by the Bears to 122 yards rushing and 112 passing, while the Bears themselves, although hampered by a muddy field, collected 186 more yards on the ground and 190 on forwards and laterals.

Redskins Lead in Kicking
Washington still led in per cent of passes completed with a .523 mark and in average distance of punts with 42.8 yards.

The team leaders:
Total yards gained per game—Chicago Bears 384.1; Green Bay 335.4.

Yards passing per game—Chicago Bears 217.1; Washington 198.4.

Per cent of passes completed—Washington .523; Chicago Bears .520.

Opponents' yards gained per game—Washington 182; Phil-Pitt 198.8.

Opponents' yards by rushing per game—Phil-Pitt 64; Washington 77.8.

Opponents' yards by passing per game—Washington 104.6; Chicago Bears 109.3.

Punting average—Washington 42.8 yards; Detroit 41.3 yards.

A Real Chance To Worry

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame's great coach—and I mean a great coach who has shed briny tears over my wrinkled suit all season, finally has a real tear due.

It all began back at Pittsburgh in his first game. The Niagara flow included Georgia Tech, Michigan, Navy and Army, all unbeatable. Notre Dame crushed all four teams.

At this point Frank began shedding further tears about Northwestern this week.

"You can save those teams," I said to Leahy. "In spite of Graham, a great back, and save them for Iowa Pre-Flight."

"You may need them on this occasion," Mr. Leahy shuddered, visibly, and it takes quite a shudder to make it visible.

"Don't bring that up," he said. "Banonis, an All-America at center, 220 pounds of fast, experienced action." Dick Todd, the star of the Washington Redskins at one back, Maznicki, from Boston college and the Chicago Bears at the other spot, Perry Schwartz, an all-pro end from the Dodgers.

"And I've only started. I know Northwestern will be tough. But that Iowa Pre-Flight team at full strength is one of the best teams in the country today. It has five or six of the best pros in the country, plus plenty more."

I can't agree with Mr. Leahy that Northwestern might beat him, but I can join him in crying out loud against the Seahawks from Iowa. They might beat anybody.

The Big Game of the Year
There is the chance that the big game of the year will be the Notre Dame-Iowa Seahawks scrap on November 20 at South Bend.

Northwestern this Saturday might furnish an upset—but I doubt it—even with the brilliant Graham.

But that Iowa delegation with Banonis, Todd, Maznicki, Schwartz and a few more star professionals is another matter. No one knows that better than Frank Leahy.

Iowa Seahawks have run over every team they've met, using their pro stars only a few minutes.

They have been almost as powerful on their front as Notre Dame has been on its various fronts, without calling on full strength.

Even Notre Dame's Coleman isn't as good as Banonis at center. Miller and Rykovich are no better backs than Dick Todd, of the Redskins, and Baznicki, of the Chicago Bears. Notre Dame has no end as good as Perry Schwartz.

I am not weeping any briny tears with Frank Leahy. But I can understand why Leahy can look forward to this Iowa Seahawk game at South Bend with considerable foreboding.

For he is no longer meeting Georgia Tech, Navy and West Point undergraduates.

He is facing top-flight professionals, in many instances, who have been to the football wars for many years and who know most of the answers.

And they are out to win this game, giving everything they have. Some of them have played against the Chicago Bears at their peak, so they know what rough going is.

Still the Story
Notre Dame is still the story of 1943 from now to the end of the season.

Rip Miller, one of the mules of the Four Horsemen team, says this 1943 South Bend crop is all-time for Notre Dame.

Yale and Princeton play a traditional classic with few top football players left. The best in the South and the Far West, including the Southwest, have all been tied or beaten, except Washington in the Northwest. Purdue hasn't been tested, at full strength.

So in a college football way the Notre Dame team of 1943 has become the Man o' War, the Babe Ruth, the Jack Dempsey of the gridiron.

Whatever happens to Notre Dame, win or lose, from now on, will be the main story of the week.

Northwestern with Graham, who might easily finish as one of the great backs of the year, will be no ramp over or run around. Notre Dame will have to face a natural slump to lose. But I agree with Frank Leahy that Iowa Pre-Flight can be an entirely different proposition.

I've seen Banonis, Dick Todd, Maznicki, Perry Schwartz and others, star in both college and professional competition against the best.

In my opinion Notre Dame's roughest and toughest test will be against this Iowa outfit that so far hasn't even been crowded or pressed.

Whatever happens, this seems to be the one real reason all season for Frank Leahy's flow of morbid brine.

Parade and Honor Roll Dedication Mark Observance Of Armistice Day

Exercises at City Hall Start at 8 p. m.; Dinners, Dances also Are Scheduled Here

A five-division parade, unveiling of the Allegany County Honor Roll, containing the names of approximately 8,400 men and women serving in the armed forces, a reunion banquet of 1917 Company G, open house and dancing at the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars homes and other social functions today will mark the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Armistice day in Cumberland.

The annual Armistice day parade, sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, is scheduled to start at 7 p. m. The route has been slightly changed to enable the procession to turn into Frederick street at North Centre street, thence north on Liberty street past the reviewing stand at city hall, east on Bedford street and then north on Centre street to Market.

Exercises start at 8 p. m. From Market street the parade will proceed to North Centre street, thence north on Centre street to the city hall where the honor roll dedication exercises will get under way about 8 p. m.

The parade, comprising three bands, two drum and bugle corps, Maryland State Guards, Maryland Minute Men, service organizations and their auxiliary units, Navy Mothers Club and the recruiting staffs of the United States Navy, Army, Marines and the WAC, will be marshaled by Capt. Thomas P. Conlon. His aides will be Capt. Thomas Lohr Richards, Capt. Merrill D. Golden, Capt. Norris Bruce and Commander James E. Stemple, of the local V. F. W. post.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Navy Mothers' Club members will march with the navy recruiting force and will be followed by a group representing Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Company G of 1917, comprising approximately sixty veterans of the First World War, headed by Associate Judge William A. Huster, will march in the fifth division behind the Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps.

Will Review Parade The parade will be reviewed from the stand at city hall by Col. Herbert Livingston Grymes, of the Third Service Command, Baltimore, and Lt. Col. William Preston Lane, Hagerstown, commanding the Eighth Battalion of the Maryland State Guard.

Principal speakers at the honor roll dedicatory exercises will be Col. Grymes, Attorney General William C. Walsh, Associate Judge William A. Huster, and Daniel P. McMullen, past Maryland department commander of the American Legion. Presentation of awards will be by Lt. Col. Lane. Music will be provided by the Allegany and Fort Hill high school and Loyal Order of Moose bands. Clergymen who will participate in the program are the Rev. W. Joyce Russell, the Rev. David C. Clark, the Rev. Raymond Bridges and Rabbi Aaron H. Lefkowitz.

Persons viewing the honor roll will enter city hall by the Liberty street door and use the Centre street door as an exit. Preceding the parade, officers of Company C and D of the Maryland State Guard, will entertain Lt. Col. Lane and Col. Grymes at a dinner in the Liberty Tavern at 5 p. m.

Reunion Is Scheduled Following the honor roll unveiling exercises, members of 1917 Company G will gather at the Golden Gate Tea Room for the reunion banquet. William W. McHugh, chairman of the program, expects an attendance of fifty.

Open house programs will be held at both the Legion and V.F.W. homes and there will be dancing at both places. Barley's orchestra will play at the Henry Hart Post affair and Marty Flynn's Society Ramblers will play at the Fort Cumberland Post function.

A dance for the benefit of the non-commissioned officers organization will be held this evening by Companies C and D, of the Maryland State Guard, at the state armory. Jimmie Andrews orchestra will play.

Food Markets To Open Union barber shops throughout the city will be closed at 1 p. m. in observance of the holiday and a majority of the federal, state, county and city offices will be closed. Food markets and other business houses will carry on as usual.

William L. McKenzie Will Deliver Armistice Anniversary Address

A special radio address commemorating the silver anniversary of the signing of the Armistice of the First World War at 11 a. m. November 11, 1918, will be given today over station WTBO at 445 p. m. by William L. McKenzie, past commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A total of 477 radio stations throughout the country will present similar programs sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

John R. Shaffer Dies in Hospital

Baltimore and Ohio Freight Conductor Had Been Ill since July 13

John R. Shaffer, 61, rear of 506 Greenway avenue, Baltimore and Ohio railroad freight conductor, died in Memorial hospital at 2 p. m. yesterday after being a patient there since Monday.

Although he was a native of Hyndman, Pa., Mr. Shaffer had resided in Cumberland for the past forty years and had been employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for about thirty-eight years.

Mr. Shaffer was a conductor on the Conellsville division but had been unable to work since July 13 when he became ill. He was a member of Conellsville local No. 218, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and of Cumberland Aerie, No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Lillie Twigg Shaffer, Mr. Shaffer is survived by three sons, Master Sgt. Stephen R. Shaffer, Pratt, Kas.; Albert H. Shaffer, Kansas, Mo.; and Edward W. Shaffer, Cumberland; three sisters, Miss Virginia Shaffer, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Mary Leis, Spencerville, Ohio; and Mrs. Emma Davies, Duquesne, Pa.; one brother, William M. Shaffer, Hyndman; and one grandson.

The body is at the Kight funeral home where services will be held Friday. Interment will be in the cemetery at Hyndman.

MRS. CHARLES MORRISSEY Mrs. Mary Barrett Morrissey, 72, wife of Charles A. Morrissey, 105 North Johnson street, died at 7:30 a. m., yesterday in Allegany hospital where she had been a patient since Monday.

Mrs. Morrissey was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church and of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Miss Margaret L. Morrissey and Mrs. Beatrice C. Lindsay; four sons, Henry S. and Charles William Morrissey, Cumberland; Carpenter's Mate Second Class Bernard P. Morrissey, Camp Perry, Williamsburg, Va.; Corp. Vincent T. DORIS TWIGG WINS THIRD PRIZE IN P-E CONTEST

Announcement was made yesterday that Dolores Twigg, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Twigg, Baker street, this city, won a $25 War Bond, for winning third prize in the Potomac Edison Company's recent conservation contest for school boys and girls testing their knowledge of caring for home appliances. The bond was awarded the girl yesterday by Henry W. Price, of the Potomac Edison Company.

Eleven other children from the Cumberland and Frostburg areas were among the forty-five prize winners. Those receiving prizes of $10 in War Stamps are Dorothy Muir, Frostburg, and Frank Buskirk, Jr. of Klondyke, near Frostburg. Prizes of $5 in War Stamps were awarded to Harold Moon and Marjorie Banks, both of this city.

Winners of lesser prizes are Jack and Jean Klotzner (twins), Patricia Ann Halloran, Fred Miller, Ray Lee, and Janet Matlick, all of this city, and Isaac Stakem, Lonaconing. A nine-year-old Martinsburg, W. Va. girl submitted the entry that won the first prize of $100 U. S. War Bond. The $50 War Bond given as second prize went to a Boonsboro, boy.

The forty-five prize-winning entries were selected by the judges from more than 4,000 submitted in the contest which was designed to further the present national electric conservation program, and to emphasize the proper care and use of electrical appliances to make them last until the war is over.

Youth Is Bitten On Leg By Dog

Wade Brottemack, 39, 221 Mary street, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday morning for lacerations of his left hand suffered while unloading cast iron at Mt. Savage. He is an employee of Benny Waingold.

Decrease of 432 Pupils Reported In High Schools

Enrollment in Allegany County Drops More Than Any Other County

According to figures released yesterday by the state department of education Allegany county had the greatest decrease in white high school enrollment of any county in the state, showing a loss of 432 students.

The figures show an increase of 1,789 in the number of pupils enrolled in Maryland elementary schools in the Baltimore area and a 1,640 decrease in those enrolled in high schools in the same section.

Baltimore county showed the greatest increase in the white elementary schools with an added enrollment of 1,254. Anne Arundel, Cecil, Charles, Montgomery, Harford and St. Mary's county also showed increases in the number of both white and negro pupils.

The number of pupils in white elementary schools was 107,591 this year as compared to 105,962 in 1942 and enrollment in negro elementary schools has risen from 20,397 to 20,577 in the same period.

Meanwhile, enrollment in white high schools dropped from 37,659 in 1942 to 36,094 in 1943 and the total number of negro high school students fell from 4,805 to 4,760. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, said that the decrease in high school registration was due largely to youths of high school age getting jobs in industries lured by the high wages.

Dr. Pullen reported that the number actually to leave school is probably much more than the 1,640 shown in the reports as the figure does not take into consideration the number of new pupils who have come to Maryland from other states.

Man Posts $30 Bond On City Police Charge

Arrested Tuesday night on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct, Raymond Bell, Cumberland, will be given a hearing in police court Friday morning. Bell posted bond of $30 for his release from jail pending the hearing.

Police said Bell was "raising a row" in front of a beer tavern and refused to quiet down when he was told by Officer R. M. Nuse. Police added that Bell also resisted arrest.

Yesterday in police court, Charles B. Holtzman, 227 Springdale street, forfeited bond of $10 on a charge of failing to assist an officer. Police said Holtzman refused to call police headquarters and ask for the patrol wagon when he was requested by Officer Nuse so that Bell could be taken to jail.

Milk Regulations Amended in State To Protect Public

Herds of All Raw Milk Producers Must Submit to Bang's Disease Tests

State milk regulations have been amended in order to protect the public against possible infection with undulant fever and enforcement of the new law which provides that all milk and milk products consumed raw shall be from herds or additions thereto which have been found free of Bang's disease, as shown by serum tests, will become effective January 1, 1945.

This regulation applies to all raw milk producers in the State of Maryland.

According to Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the Maryland State Department of Health, all such herds shall be retested at least every twelve months and all reactors removed from the herd. A certificate identifying each animal by number and signed by the laboratory making the test shall be evidence of the test.

Regulation in Effect Here The Bang's disease test has been compulsory in Cumberland for the last three years but it has not been enforced in Allegany county where there are approximately twelve raw milk producers. There are six raw milk producers in Cumberland and their output is about 250 gallons daily.

It is believed that the enforcement of this regulation will greatly reduce the incidence of undulant fever, or Malta fever as it is often called. Undulant fever in human beings occurs as a result of drinking the unpasteurized milk of cows infected with Bang's disease or consuming milk products made from such milk.

Three of the four cases of undulant fever reported in Washington county during the first ten months of 1943 were transmitted by raw milk from cows infected with Bang's disease, according to a recent report by W. R. Willard, health officer. The number of cases is the highest for that county since 1939.

48 Cases in 1942 Dr. Riley's report indicates that in 1942 there were a total of forty-eight cases of undulant fever in Maryland. Of these cases forty-seven occurred in the counties and one in Baltimore City. No deaths are on record.

Publicizing the new regulation is now well under way in Allegany county and it is hoped that by January 1, 1945, all producers will be co-operating with state health authorities by carrying out the provisions of the law.

Dr. Breitstein Examines 57 at Ear Clinic Here

Hearing Aids Recommended for 13; Next Clinic Is Planned for January

Hearing aids were recommended for thirteen children and radium gas treatment was suggested for another group at the prevention of deafness clinic, conducted yesterday by Dr. M. L. Breitstein, of Baltimore, at the headquarters of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

The one-day clinic, held under the joint auspices of the board of education, health department and American Legion, and financed by the latter organization, attracted fifty-seven children from Allegany and Garrett counties, the largest turnout recorded here since the clinics were inaugurated several years ago.

Mrs. Breitstein Assists Dr. Breitstein was assisted by his wife who had charge of the audiometer readings.

Others present to assist the clinic were Miss Anne M. Sloan, of Lonaconing, child welfare chairman of the Maryland department of the American Legion, representative of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 and its auxiliary unit; a group of public health nurses in charge of Miss Sadie Gladwin, supervisor, and officials of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Miss Sloan stated that many persons called by telephone for the purpose of making appointments for children but it was necessary to advise them to wait until the next clinic is scheduled here. Efforts will be made to hold the next clinic here in January.

The Legion child welfare chairman was much concerned over the number of small children for whom Dr. Breitstein recommended the use of instruments to improve their hearing.

Urges Early Action "It's a tragedy to see so many deaf children between eight and twelve years old," she declared in emphasizing the importance of correcting hearing defects before it is too late.

Radium gas treatments will be given to children in Baltimore. Yesterday's clinic was the third this year financed by the Legion. It lasted seven hours, commencing at 8 a. m., and concluding at 4 p. m., with an hour taken out for luncheon at which Sloan was hostess.

Youths Will Be Sworn in Saturday With the addition of four more 17-year-old volunteers of this area who have taken the army aviation cadet mental examination, Tech. Sgt. Clarence L. Blehn announced yesterday that thirty youths will probably be included in the group who will be sworn in Saturday at the army recruiting office here, by Capt. Lee R. Conley of the Aviation Cadet Board of Baltimore.

Those who took mental tests in the past two days are: Walter Neff, 318 Cumberland street; Claris M. Allen, 646 Columbia avenue; Marion L. Dorsey, 236 Hughes street; Keyser, and Richard H. Gilmore, negro, 509 Columbia street, City.

Blehn announced that young men who failed to pass the "I" mental test may take the new "J" form that has been in use for the past two weeks. Physical standards are at present modified to allow 20-30 eyeglass correctible to 20-20 and hearing of 15-20 in both ears. Dental requirements allow the enlistment of men with upper and lower dentures.

National War Fund Has Three Main Objectives

Walsh Says U.S.O. and Six Agencies Are Principal Beneficiaries

In spite of all the radio and newspaper publicity which has been directed to the nation-wide campaign to raise $125,000,000 for the National War Fund, many people still ask just what it is all about, according to Attorney General William C. Walsh, campaign chairman of the Allegany County War Fund Committee.

"I believe I can give them a clearer appreciation of this campaign and the good it is bound to accomplish by grouping its main objectives under three simple headings," Walsh said yesterday.

Objective number one, according to Walsh, is to build, strengthen, and maintain the morale of our fighting men. More than one-half of the total amount to be raised—$67,672,000 or fifty-four per cent—will be devoted to the service of our armed forces.

Principal beneficiaries of the fund will be U. S. O., which in turn includes six great national agencies that have pooled their experience, facilities, and trained personnel to give the boys "A Home away from Home." No matter where our soldiers, sailors, marines or airmen go, they will find a competent U. S. O. staff endeavoring to provide comforts and recreation, entertainment and educational facilities for them.

U. S. O. Has 2,000 Units There are over 2,000 such units in this country and overseas. They serve monthly a total of over 1,000,000. Then there is the United Seamen's Service which maintains medical assistance and rest home and supplies emergency clothing and canteen facilities for shipwrecked men, as well as clubs and recreational facilities for all boatmen wherever they may go.

The War Prisoner's Aid has been doing an invaluable service to thousands of unfortunate prisoners of twenty-three foreign countries. They help relieve the hardships of prison camps with musical instruments, Bibles, writing material and recreational supplies, Walsh said.

"As I said at the start, fifty-four per cent of the total fund we are asked to raise will go through these agencies to back the attack of our own fighting men wherever they are," Walsh added.

Objective number two, continued Attorney General Walsh, is to strengthen and maintain the morale of our Allies. Thirty-five per cent of the National War Fund goes for this work.

The principal agencies supporting are the Russian War Relief, China War Relief, Polish War Relief, Greek War Relief and British War Relief and others such as Belgian, Yugoslav, Norwegian Relief Agencies.
